Cottolene

Shortens your food—Lengthens your life

Physicians to-day are recommending Cottolene for dyspeptics and others in a "run-down" condition. Never heard of them recommending lard for such a purpose, did you? Cottolene is a product of Nature, clean in source, making and manner of marketing. It makes food which the most delicate stomach can digest.

Cottolene is far superior to lard or cooking butter for all frying and shortening purposes.

THREE DEATHS IN ONE FAMILY

Distressing News Received in Lynchburg With No Details Given.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Lynchburg, Va., October 6.—The report to-night is that George Smith, who was reported dead in Cleveland, is still alive. The family here is still in the dark as to the cause of the trouble.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Lynchburg, Va., October 6.—Since late last night the family of Caleb E. Smith, a well-known traveling salesman, who lives at 1195 Early Street, has been apprised of the sudden deaths of the son, George Smith, his wife, Mrs.

Margaret Smith, and their four-year-old daughter, Margo, all of which occurred during the night in Cleveland, O. The family is in entire ignorance thus far of the cause of this trio of bereavements.

About 10 o'clock last night a telegram was received by the family announcing the death of the daughter-in-law. Several hours later another message brought intelligence of the death of the little girl, and this morning at an early hour a long distance message told of the death of the brother.

As soon as the first message reached the family, Mrs. Smith and daughter, Miss Lena, made preparation to go to Cleveland, and they left without knowing of the death of the little girl. They will arrive in Cleveland without knowing that the entire family is no more.

Around the Hotels

"I believe the majority of the people of my section who have discussed the matter are opposed to the amendments to the Constitution," said J. M. Lewis, member of the House of Delegates from King and Queen and Essex, in the city yesterday.

"Personal," said Mr. Lewis, "I am inclined to think that an extension of the session of the General Assembly to ninety days would work to the advantage of the public in giving longer time for the consideration of State questions. But I am so much opposed to the amendment allowing treasurers to succeed themselves indefinitely that I am willing to see them all defeated if there is any danger that the voters will become confused as between the propositions."

Settlement Difficult.
"No adequate means have been devised to compel an actual cash settlement of holdover treasurers. They make a paper settlement with county authorities, and when this is done at the close of the term the money simply goes back to the same man on the same day for his next term. This is no real settlement."

"When treasurers are changed there must be an actual, visible settlement, such as there is every year with the state auditor. It takes the real cash to satisfy that official, but under our system there is no way to get the cash in settlement with counties without rotation in office."

Mr. Lewis hears of no opposition to the amendments for re-election. As to his own district, he is a candidate whether or not he will be a candidate.

John T. Wilkins III, of Northampton county, came over to see the State Fair. Mr. Wilkins was a member of the House of Delegates in 1908, but defeated last year, largely, he believes, because he opposed the submission to the people of the amendment to the Constitution allowing commissioners of the revenue to succeed themselves.

"I am much pleased with the sanitary arrangements for caring for live stock at the State Fair," said a veterinarian here yesterday. "Without the taking of proper precautions, such an event as this might easily be a disseminator of disease over wide areas and in virulent form. But the authorities of the fair have seen to it that the precautions are taken, and in my opinion there is little danger of any considerable amount of infection. The stock pens are well cared for and in splendid sanitary condition."

Senator N. B. Early, Jr., of Greene, with Mrs. Early, is a visitor at the State Fair. The Senator is as outspoken as ever in his opposition to measures looking to the abolition of child labor and to certain other propositions which he took an active part in defeating last winter.

J. A. Sydnor, member of the House of Delegates from Amelia and Nottingham, and Paul McLean, member from Richmond and Cumberland, are fair visitors.

VAST INTERESTS DEEPLY INVOLVED

ing motions until the following day. This year, President Taft will be at Beverly; the fact will be announced by Justice Brandeis, presiding, and the court will adjourn. Largely on account of there not being a full bench last term many of the cases were postponed. The continuing vacancies may cause the further postponement of several cases. The death of Senator General Bowers may also result in the postponement of a number of government cases.

The West Virginia Debt Case.
The first big case set for argument is the dispute between the State of West Virginia and the Commonwealth of Virginia as to the amount of money the former owes the latter by reason of the formation of separate governments. Charles E. Littlefield, special master of the court, last spring reported that the amount varied from about $3,000,000 to about $9,000,000, according to the basis that might be accepted for a settlement. Some of the most prominent lawyers in the country will appear before the court to argue on exceptions to the report, which will be preparatory to final judgment in the case.

Immediately following the Virginia case the court will hear the famous peonage cases from Florida. Only the favorable action of the Supreme Court in the case of the State of Florida, it is said, can now save several men from going to the Federal penitentiary for alleged violations of the laws against compulsory service.

Harlan, general manager of the Jackson Lumber Company, with big mills near Lockhart, Ala., has been sentenced to fifteen months at hard labor in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., and to pay a fine of $5,000; Robert Gallagher, logger superintendent, to fifteen months and a fine of $1,000; C. C. Hilton and S. E. Huggins, employees, to thirteen months and a fine of $1,000. All for having conspired to commit the offense known as peonage. The accused are seeking to be released on writs of habeas corpus, the claim being that the sentence of hard labor was illegal, that the trial court had no jurisdiction and that the grand jury was not constituted according to law. Seriously of less interest in the labor world will be the cases involving the constitutionality of the employers' liability law of 1908. This law was passed by Congress to take the place of the nullified by the Supreme Court because it applied to interstate commerce as well as to interstate. The present law has been attacked along the same lines.

The Contempt Cases.
Of even greater interest is the case involving the contempt proceedings against the officials of the American Federation of Labor. Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, is under sentence to serve twelve months in jail. John Mitchell, formerly president of the United Mine Workers, nine months, and Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, six months, all for alleged contempt of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in that they disregarded the injunction to cease interfering with the business of the Buckeye Stove and Range Company, of St. Louis, which had brought suit against them to prevent them from boycotting it. All the points in the controversy are to be laid before the court for final decision.

The Missouri 2-cent passenger rate law and the maximum freight rate law of that State have been set for argument after the contempt cases. The constitutionality of these laws is attacked. Owing to the veto by Governor Hughes of the New York 2-cent fare bill, his attitude as a member of the court toward the Missouri cases will be watched with interest.

The court was to have given a second hearing at the beginning of the term to the Baltimore and Ohio Southern Railroad cases, involving the question as to what should be the unit for the assessment of penalties for violations of the twenty-eight-hour law governing the shipment of live stock. Last year the court stood four in favor of holding the trainload to be the unit and four in favor of making the unit the separate shipments. In view of the tie vote it is now believed

A House That Is Older Than the Types
Make Them Out to Be.
Types and careless writers make some very serious blunders sometimes. Just the changing of a figure will make a very serious shake up of an otherwise good story. Just how it got into print at least twice, that the great clothing and goods store, which has been on Broad Street in this week celebrating its fourth anniversary is hard to tell when most of the people in Richmond and all through Virginia know that it is much older house. The fact is that the firm is this week celebrating in great shape its forty-fourth, not its fourth anniversary. However, the young men who are now at the helm and are doing some great hustling in a business way are not forty-four years old, not by a great deal; but the old house was established by their fathers that many years ago.

Long List of Prosecutions.
A long list of prosecutions under Federal laws were also put forward at the head of the calendar for the coming term. Among these are the appeal of the government from the action of the New York Federal courts in setting aside the indictment against F. Augustus Heinze on charge of instigating the defrauding of the National Bank of New York City, of which he was president; the appeal of the government from similar treatment of the indictment against George Kissel, a New York broker, and Thomas B. Larned, of Philadelphia, on charges of having conspired with the American Sugar Company to restrain interstate commerce in violation of the Sherman antitrust act by preventing the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company from doing business; and several cases involving prosecutions under the pure food and drug act. The so-called "divided cases" is the so-called "divided cases" is the government has appealed to the Supreme Court from the action of the New York Federal court in quashing the indictment against the Press Publishing Company, publisher of the New York World, on a charge of libel. It was alleged that articles were printed defaming William H. Taft, William C. Cramwell, Douglas Robinson, Theodore Roosevelt, Charles P. Taft and others in connection with the purchase of the Panama Canal.

The congress also recommended twenty agreements between all civilized States, whereby each country should receive from the others notice of sentence pronounced by foreign courts against its citizens, such notice to form the basis of special action of forfeiture of status by the courts of the offender's own country. A banquet was tendered to the foreign delegates to the congress by the United States government, Attorney-General Wickersham representing the President.

ASSISTANT POSTMASTER OF ROANOKE IS DEAD

Ash M. Prince Passes Away After an Illness of Two Months, With Complication of Diseases.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Roanoke, Va., October 6.—Ash M. Prince, assistant postmaster of Roanoke, died today of complication of diseases, after an illness of two months, aged fifty-three years. He leaves a widow and six children. He was a native of Beckley, W. Va., and served two terms as Mayor of Bluefield. He was defeated in the State election for Auditor of West Virginia by a narrow margin, and he engaged in mercantile business in his native State for several years, conducting a drug business in Roanoke before becoming assistant postmaster four years ago. He was past master of the Elks' Lodge of Bluefield, and had attained high elevation in other secret organizations. His is the third death from sepsis in Roanoke in three months. The second victim of the disease, Mrs. Virginia Hodges, died Monday of this week.
